

Is There Hope

The hopelessness of an orphan's life reaches crisis proportions at age 16. No longer eligible to live in the orphanage, most are sent out to a trade school or left to fend for themselves on the street where they become easy prey for predators waiting to sweep them into a life of forced prostitution or crime. Most are not ready for an independent life.

Aggravated by a host of psychological problems, an absence of any marketable work related skills or ability to make wise choices, all in a very threatening environment, is the reason only 10% ever succeed achieving any kind of productive lifestyle.

Yet these children are expected to successfully integrate into society.

Our Vision

To see helpless and destitute orphans equipped and able to live balanced and disciplined lives. To give orphans every possible advantage to grow in an environment that empowers them to become the national leaders of tomorrow.

Our Mission

To mobilize individuals, organizations and governments to provide the needed care for orphans, orphan's rights advocacy, national transition homes and foster care, education and humanitarian help.

Liz's Discovery Trip

After two days at camp the kids saw enough of us to know that we were safe. We did not yell, we did not take anything from them, we were not going to make them leave, and we were not going to leave. All we did all day long was be with them. We ate where they ate, we went to the bathroom where they went to the bathroom, we slept where they slept. We were there to be with them.

To be the hands and feet of God. To be a fleshed out example of the love of Christ. To desperately love them for as many days as I possibly could. For seven days we entered their lives and loved them. Through our love they learned to trust. They learned to feel safe. They confided in us. They drew pictures for us. They shared their things and themselves with us. They asked us questions. They played soccer, hockey, volleyball, and swam in the sea with us. They told us jokes. They were children. They showed us their needs. They told us their fears. They trusted us.

We showed them our love. We told them about a Father in heaven who taught us how to love, who loves beyond any love we can give, who loves them and knows them.
